THE DRAMA.

LOCAL DRAMATIC AFFAIRS.

The stage is quiet. The chief feature of it now is "The Rajah," at the Madison Square Theatre, which draws moderately well and therefore will be continued. The singularly frivolous and absurd idea has been promulgated that those judges who consider "The Rajah" to be a weak play do so for the reason that its uthor is an American. Such notions naturally follow from stultifying the human mind with too much milk and water. The author of "The Rajah" is the author of "Pendragon," and "Pendragon" is an excellent work, and was greatly admired and heartily praised. "Young Mrs. Winthrop" is an American piece, and it was received with abundance of critical favor. In fact the disposition in all quarters is to judge American plays with the most generous forbearance—and most of them, certainly, need it. "The Rajah" has been called a weak and worthless play because it is weak and worthless, and because it is not right that the honors of successful authorship should be accorded to writers who do not de-

If bad plays are to be commended simply because the are of American origin, there is an end of all judgment.
Or if it is really believed that plays written by Americans are for that reason denounced, there is an end of common sense. The sole reason that French and English plays obtain a readier hearing in America than those of local birth is that they have already been tried in France or England, and the question of their value thus determined. The successful pieces of the foreign stage are naturally brought here. The failures are left aione. It happens to be a fact, furthermore, that the best dramatie writers of the time are foreigners. Even Mr. Boucleault is an Irishman. If money could regulate the matter, if the existence of a splendid market for good plays had the effect of creating good dramatic authors, Americans would speedily excel competition. But there are some things that money cannot do. It cannot make lus. 1t cannot create literature. Poeta nascitur Trite but true; and it covers the whole case. By and by a dramatic creator, born in America, may appear. When be does he will find no difficulty in the way of his works. Meanwhile, probably, we shall have Rajahs occupying a prominence to which they have no just title, and fools saying that this trash would be admired if only it were

The Ministrel Festival has ended and the Grand Opera House is closed. So also is it with Niblo's Garden. Mr. Roland Reed, in "Cheek." ended his engagement last night at Haverly's Theatre, and that house is shur. German opera has prevailed for a fortnight at Wallack's Theatre, but will now be hushed. Mestayer's Tourists have one, and the visitor to the Cosmopolitan may now see Prince Methusalem. At the Bijou there is "Pop"; at the Ban Francisco Opera House there is "A Bunch of Keys" at the Casino there is "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief at the Casino there is "The Queen's Lace Handkerenier; and at the Standard there is "Humpty Dumpty," with a ballet and with varieties. Tony Pastor's Theatre is this week devoted to the Folly Company and "Fuu in a Balloon." The veteran stage manager, Ben Baker, takes a benefit to-morrow night at the Union Square Theatre. A strong bill is arranged, and J. B. Studley, F. Mackay, William Castle, Charlotte Thompson, Helen Bancroit, Frank Mordaunt and Milton Nobles are among the volunteers who will appear. Another incident of the the volunteers who will appear. Another incident of the new week is the production of "A Wite's Honor," at the Windsor Theatre. With these entries the record is com-

SETTLING UP MR. HAVERLY'S AFFAIRS.

THE POSSESSION OF THE FOURTEENTH STREET THEATRE ALONE UNDECIDED.

"Come over and sit down," said Mr. Haverly to a TRIBUNE reporter last night at the Fifth Avenue Hotel; "I am tired out." Signs of weariness were apparent in his face and manner. Yesterday was the last day of the wearisome campaign which has been ged between Messrs. McConnell and Haverly the one side and Messrs. Colville and Gilmore and a few other creditors on the other since McConnell came from Chicago a week ago to settle up the affairs of the manager.
"Now at last I think I can tell you something definite about my affairs," Mr. Haverly went on. "It was been a long, weary week, and though I myself have not taken a very active part in the negotiations, you can imagine that my mind has been on the stretch throughout. Now at present I stand as follows: I have transferred my interest in the California and Brooklyn theatres to Mr. McConnell and also secured to him the profits of the Chicago Theatre. I feel I am indebted to bim and this is the best way I can devise of securing bim from loss. All our transactions have been on a strictly business footing. The only property the possession of which is still un-Fourteenth Street Theatre. At the meeting to-day no agreement could be arrived at, and as Mr. that matter myself if possible. To tell you the truth, however, I am going to Colorado to look after my mining interests there, and shall certainly have a rest from managerial cares for three months or so. No, I am not going to quit the show business. I want you to understand that distly. But I am going to take a rest for three months There is McConnell, however. Better talk to him."

Mr. McConnell said: "I start for Chicago to-night.

am tired out, and see no further use for my present here. I have fixed Haverly so that all the attachments except one have been removed, and he has only a few mere trifling claims to Nettle up. Now, as to this Colville-Gilmore affair, I want you to state distinctly-for I know 'Jack' Hayerly is too good-hearted to say hard things of any one-that Colville and Gilmore-or rather Colville, for Gilmore is only a figure-head-have shown their hand at last. I offered more than the attachment calls for, reserving only the option of paying it next Tuesday, and they refused it. They have the law on their side for they hold a transfer of the lease with the lessor's approval, and the atmosment was a mere gratuitous insuit, a desire to ruin Hav-erly, and they have ruined him. Their sole object was to get possession of the theatre and they have got it. I can do no more, so will get back to Chicago as soon as I can. I did not want to take Haverly's other theatres, but I had no choice. I tell you it is infamous conduct. I only asked for two days in which to raise $14,000, and I think that any business man would have understood that no one carries that sum in their trousers pockets. They have been loudly proclaiming all the week that all they wanted was their money, and now when it is offered they refuse it. But of course they don't want the theatre. They have said so, and that is enough."

Mr. Colville was found "monarch of all he surveyed," at the Fourteenth Street Theatre. Mr. McCennell's remarks were reported to him. "Now I'll just tell you what it is," asid he. "We know that McConnell is no partner of Haverly. He has him in his power and we don't micend to give up this theatre to McConnell on any better terms than we would to John Stetson or any one else. In fact, I would give him rather worse. If Haverly wants the place he can have if for as little as we can afford. But a stranger coming down from Chicago and abusing in will flad we are not to be buldozed. It lan't to get possession of the theatre and they wants the place he can have it for as little as we can al-lord. But a stranger coming down from Chicago and abusing us will flad we are not to be buildozed. It isn't to much of a prize, after all. There is only one year's angiole lease. There is a conditional renewal for four rears, it is true, but that is not negotiable, and we had to obtain the consent of the leasors before we could iccept the lease as security and get any sort of a puramete."

The matter was the general topic of conversation at the theatres last night. Said one prominent manager: "Ilike 'Jack' Haverly, and am sorry for him, but I cannot help feeling that the sooner all purely speculative managers leave the profession the better for the rest of ks."

MISS RUSSELUS EUROPEAN TRIP.

HER TROUBLES NOT AT AN END-THE CONTRACT WITH MR. HENDERSON.

Miss Lillian Russell has, it appears, been acting like the ostrich which, when its head is hidden, imagines itself secure from pursuit. Her flight to England has not altogether relieved her from the reibilities of written contracts. Mr. Henderson who holds a contract with her to sing for him from September, has through the British Consul taken such steps as will prevent her singing after that date in England. A month's notice was necessary, and that he has given, through his lawyers. The law on the subject seems clear and an injunction is as easily procurable in her Majesty's dominions as under the Stars and Stripes. Several amusing facts have turned up relative to the departure of "Mr. and Mrs. Solsmon and maid." It appears that Solomen paid for the passages with a check of a New-York firm for $160, which on presentation was marked "N. F." and returned. The Monarch Line officials were alarmed and were on the point of cabling for his arrest, but the following day the check was met. On the steamer, Solomon and Miss Russell occupied the purser's cabin ou deck, which the latter forced the mundelan, much against his will, to procure for the additional sum of $40. So the passage, with the maid's fare of $25 thrown in, cost some one (report says the Comts Delva) $225. eptember, has through the British Consul taken such

SUMMER LEISURE.

FIRST COMERS TO SARATOGA.

OPENING OF THE GREAT HOTELS-CONVENTIONS-THE COURT OF APPEALS—THE UNDERTAKERS.

[FROM THE REGULAR CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE.] SARATOGA SPRINGS, June 16 .- The season may now be said to be open, as all of the hotels have swung back their big doors, except the Grand Union and Kensington, which will be reopened inside of a week. From the towering flagstaffs on the other hotels to-day is floating the lettered bunting.

There is a goodly company of guests at the Windsor Hotel, where Chief-Justice Ruger and the Associate Jus-tices of the Court of Appeals are resting. These honorable wearers of the ermine are highly pleased with their Saratega summer-term arrangement, which affords them an opportunity to enjoy the bracing and healthful atmos-phere of this resert. The Court adjeurns daily at 2 p. m. and, following the regulation dinner hour, the judges may be seen indulging in a drive on Union-ave., Geyser-ave., and through Woodlawn Park. During the ante-breakfast hours they may be observed frequenting the mineral fountains, "quaffing the nectar from Nature's laboratory," as a prominent divine describes the drinking of spring water. All of the judges are highly pleased with the new and handsomely appointed court-room provided here for their use and accommodation. They appreciate Saratoga's outlay and kindly recognize it by words of commendation. The General Term of the Third Depart ment, which meets here annually in September, will occupy the same court-room.

Saratoga has had a novel experience this week in the line of conventions. The undertakers closed their convention last night, after a banquet and drive, repacking their coffins and robes and returning to their respective homes of the dead. The Undertakers' Association of the State of New-York, which convened on Thursday, concluded its lanors inside of two days. The proceedings disclosed, among other things, a few facts that were not generally known at this cosmopolitan centre. Under-takers scorn to be known as such, and covet the æsthetic appellation of "funeral directors." They are not engaged in "business" like ordinary mortals of the commercial circle, but wish it distinctly understood that their calling ranks as high as art and is a "profession"; which would suggest that the caption of an obltuary no tice of theirs should read " The late Artist, John Doe, F. D.," instead of simply "Undertaker John Doe," in the death list. The display of funeral goods and supplies by manufacturers was very large and elaborate, and included polished mahogany boxes and caskets in crushed strawberry, royal purple and other colors, the retail figures for which would hardly meet the sheriff's price of a small Western farm. But funerals are unavoidable and the professional funeral director " a necessity. This was the third convention of the week and sixth during the past four weeks. The Photographic Stock Dealers and Manufacturers' Association of America met at the Adelphi Hotel on Tuesday, and on the following day the Pumpmakers' Association of the United States held their regular Saratoga meeting at this hotel. The regulation of prices and the consideration of the state of the trade-supply and demand-constituted the burden of the business transacted.

The United States Hotel was opened for the season this morning by Tompkins, Gage & Co.

Clement & Cox to-day opened Congress Hall and the season at the Columbian Hotel, of which Harris & Price

This is an association of New-York and Canadian gentlemen who have for years enjoyed their summer vacations together. Instead of passing the weeks fishing in the waters of Northern Canada, they resolved this year 'for once at least to go crazy an ecoching," as one of the members expressed it. The party includes Harvey P. Dwight, of Toronto, Ontario, president of the club; Erssita Wiman, of New-York, vice-president; Robert J. Kimball, William P. Raynor and Theodore E. Leeds, of New-York; T.J. Townsend and W. C. Matthews, of Toronto, James Hedley, of Toronto, accompanied them as their guest. They met by appointment at Greenfield, Misss., on June 7, and up to the moment of their arrival here had passed the most of their time on the top of a coach, and are bronzed like veterans. Their timetacy after leaving Greenfield was by way of Brattleboro, Windsor, Woodstock, Pomfret, Barnard, Bethel, West Randolph, Montpelier, Williamstown, Barre, Waterbury, Stone, Mount Manstield, Burlington, and thence down the east shere of Lake Champiain and across the country to Saratogo.

The Convalescence Home, a branch of the Child's Hos-ipital of Albany, was opened here this week, the forma address being made by Bishop Doane. The Home is situated at the Gredan Cottage on Lake-ave., and forms the summer residence of a number of children, who are under the tender care of ladies of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Doris's Circus and Menagerie, which had a 'performance here to-day, attracted a large multitude of the agricultural community to the village. It was surprising how many of the summer guests from the cities, rusticating here, did not care about seeing the show themselves, but proved willing escorts to the little people who were anxious to see the animals.

The question of erecting a large convention hall is again being agitated, in hopes that Saratoga may be selected as the place of meeting of one or oth of the National political conventions and also of the State conventions.

The hotel orchestras will reach herein a few days, when the plazza concerts will begin.

THE SEASON AT NEWPORT. A LARGE NUMBER OF ARRIVALS AT THE COTTAGES

AND HOTELS.

NEWPORT, June 16 .- Over two-thirds of the cottage-residents have arrived. The remainder will be here during the present month. A large number of cottagers came during the present week, and a few houses were rented. The cottage renting season, however, is over. Those who desire to rent houses after next week will be likely to secure them at their own prices, or, in other words, there will be a " tumble ' rents.

The visitors to the Casino, beach, cliffs and to other points of interest are increasing. A large number of well-known cottagers and their families have become season subscribers to the Casino, and a few men have been proposed as stockholders or members of the corporation. The Casino grounds look very pretty. The theatre connected with it was opened for the first time this season on Wednesday evening. It will be used by first, class companies and by amateurs during the season. The tennis court and lawn-tennis grounds are very liberally patronized.

THE SEVENTY-FIRST IN CAMP. INCIDENTS OF THE TRIP TO PEEKSKILL.

N STRUCTIONS OF COLONEL VOSE-THE ARRIVAL AND RECEPTION.

[FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE.] STATE CAMP OF INSTRUCTION, PEEKSKILL, June 16 .- It seemed like resuming military life where the 22d Regiment left off last year when the 71st took possession of the State Comp of Instruction this after-noon. The State and National colors were run up on the parade ground, and a State salute of twenty-one guns carried the news to Peckskill as the head of the first troops of the second season appeared at the head of the hill. At the armory in New-York this morning the regiment was ready to march on The men took their knapsacks, with rolled blankets. Owing to the strictness of the regulations the men were not allowed to send their accoutrements to the boat by messenger boys, as some of them expressed a mild desire to do. The line of march, in column of fours, was down Thirty fourth-st to Seventh-ave, up the avenue to Thirty-fifth-at, and thence directly west to the pler at the foot of the street, where the flagship of the State navy, the Long Branch, was waiting to receive them. Commodore Gwyer did the naval honors, and Captain Francesco held the pilot-house with the heroism of a veteran. The inggage was a trifle late in arriving and it was 1:25 p. m. when the boat awang out into the stream and headed for Peckskill. A member of Company G was overcome by the heat on the march from the armory and was taken down on one of the bag-

The number of officers and men of the 71st on the beat was 348, and a few others followed on a later boat and the afternoon trains. Corporal T. E. Shackleton, of Company H, with a detail of seven men, was first at the boat in charge of the luggage. Captain Lee, of Company C, is the officer of the day, and Lieutenant Taylor, of Company A, is the officer of the guard, with the regula-tion detail of thirty-six men. Captain Cowan, of Company F, was detailed as Provost Marshal, with eight men. Lieutenant F. B. Whitney, of Company H, was detailed as acting adjutant.

In the cable of the Long Branch Colonel Vose instructed the officers in general, and the company ommanders in particular, as to their duties while in camp. He said there must be nothing but office tercourse between the offloers and men. "It is a camp for business and not for pleasure," said he. "We go to make a record, and I hope it will be such an one that those who come after us will seek to emulate it. It has been reported that there was too much familiarity between the members of some of the regiments in camp hast season and the citizens of Peckskill. This the 71st must avoid, and if any infraction of this sort comes to my knowledge I will follow the case up after we leave camp and punish the man to the extremest extent the law will allow. The Colonel's remarks were received with cheers, and directly after Commissary Sergeant cheers, and directly after Commissing Sergeaux, Alkers gladdened the hearts of the officers by serving a substantial incheon. In addition to members of the 71st Regiment there were on board W. B. Soott, detailed from Company F. of the 23d Regiment, as orderly to General Eriggs, and Quartermaster Sergeaut T. B. Croffut, of Company H., 22d Regiment, detailed as a from Company F, of the 23d Regiment, as orderly to General Eriggs, and Quartermaster Sergeant T. B. Croffut, of Company H, 22d Regiment, detailed as a scorer.

The trip up the river was delightful, but without special incident. Chaplain Martin said that "no Yankee could get out a patent on weather that would be an improvement on this." The Albany day bout was passed off Haverstraw, and saintes were exchanged. Commodore Gwyer, who has spent $35,000 since last senson in improvements on the Long Branch, said that he has never had a more quiet and orderly lot of soldiers on his boat than the 71st. Verplance's Fout was rounded at 3:45 p. m. and cheers were given with a will as the white tents of the State camp came in view. The landing was made about 4 o'clock and a contingent of Peckaidil citzens, mainty of the smaller sort, were waiting on the plet. The regiment was marched from Roa Hook to the eamp in route step. On reaching the top of the hill a halt was ordered, and then the two twelve-pound Napoleous gave noisy welcome, while the colors floated gayly aloft. The regiment was first marched to the parade ground instead of being taken directly to its tents as heretofore, and white the men were left at parade rest Colonel Vose rode to State Headquarters and reported. He was given a cordial welcome by Adjutant-General Farnaworts, and then the regiment was marched of to quarters.

The Fifth Separate Company of Newburg, forty strong. Captain James T. Chase commanding, and First Lieutenant Kemper, arrived on a boat shortly after the 71st, and were promptly assembled to their quarters. All the State edendition for the reception of the Paymasier-General, are now on duty and the camp was in perfect condition for the reception of the Paymasier-General Farnaworth expressed himself as greatly pleased at the completences of the arrangements in every department. The improvements made since last season will cost something less than $15,000, of which $4,000 was expended on the new dant.

ALEXANDRIA BOMBARDED AGAIN,

Alexandria the city, not of Cleopatra, but of Pain of London, was bombarded at Coney Island last evening by about 350 soldiers under the command of Colonel Densiow. At least 5,000 people witnessed the scene from the safe precincis of the grand stand, and fully 2,000 more watched the flying bombs and listened to the music of Gilmore's Band from neighboring hotel verandas. A scene representing the city and harbor of Alexandria occupied a platform and stage erected within the inclosure devoted to fireworks. The whole filled a space 350 feet long and 80 feet wide. The spectacle began with a discharge of bombs and the massacre of the Europeans. Then followed the Admira's demand for surrendar and the bombardment of the city by the English Reet. The sacking and burning of the city formed an effective scene under the flashing light of burning powder and bursting shells.

The soldiers did their part well considering it was the first public representation of the piece. Detachments of the 13th Regiment, of New-York, and the 22d and 23d, of Brooklyn, took part in the action. The spectacle will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings of each week during the season.

ASSAULTED BY A SUPERINTENDENT. HOW DR. SCHLEY WAS TREATED AT A PRIVATE ASY-LUM AT AMITYVILLE, L. I.

Dr. J. M. Schley, of No. 1 East Forty-second-st., had occasion last Monday to visit the Long Island Home, a private insane asylum at Amityville, L. I., to make inquiries concerning a former patient who was an inmate of that institution. The Hame is a large wooden structure capable of accommodating fitty or sixty people, and is located a short distance from the railroad station. Dr. Schley found the patient, a young lady, running about the grounds bareheaded. When questioned, she said she never were a hat, however warm the weather might be. she complained bitterly of the treatment she received and stated that the food given her was poor and insufficient to meet the demands of hunger. To Dr. Thayer, the house physician, Dr. Schley protested against the treatment the girl was receiving

To Dr. Thayer, the honse physician, Dr. Schley protested against the treatment the girl was receiving and made a few suggestions as to the way in which the case ought to be treated. While he was still speaking, John Lowden, the superintendent of the institution, entered the room in which the conversation was taking place and insolently told Mr. Schley to direct his remarks to him (Lowden) instead of to Dr. Thayer, the head man of the Home. Dr. Schley replied by stating that his business was with the doctor rather than with the superintendent. This so angered Lowden that he sprang forward and caught hold of Dr. Schley. The latter struck Lowden and a scuiffe ensued, in the midst of which the men were separated by others who came into the room. A few minutes later while Dr. Schley was off his guard, Lowden sprang upon him, threw him to the floor, and pounded him about the head and face in a most bruts! manner. Dr. Schley left the place as soon as possible and returned to this city, where his wounds were dressed. Both eyes were blackened, the bones of his nose were beet and his forehead badly cut.

On Tuesday, a constable from Amityville called upon Dr. Schley with a warrant for his arrest on a charge of assault preferred by Lowden. Owing to his condition he was unable to go to Long Island. The case will be tried before Justice Capon at Amityville on Wednesday. Dr. Schley is the sonin-law of Frederick P. Olcott, president of the Central Trust Company, and a nephew of Congressman Roswell P. Flower. In conversation with a TRIBUNE reporter yesterday he stated that Dr. Thayer was formerly an insane patient in the Home where he is now physician. He said further that he had been told by a person living at Amityville that the institution had not borne a good name for some time and that the patients there are frequently allowed to wander about the grounds and the neighboring streets without attendants.

Mr. Lowden gave a different vetson of the affair. He says that shertly before noon on the day meanifyed.

some time and that the patients there are frequently allowed to wander about the grounds and the neighboring streets without attendants.

Mr. Lowden gave a different version of the affair. He says that shortly before noon on the day mentioned Dr. Schley, in company with a gentleman, came to the Home to visit a female patient who was formerly a patient of Dr. Schley's. He went out on the stoop to meet them and offered the doctor his hand, but the latter drew back. "I then went into the office," he continued, and introduced the doctor to Dr. Thayer, the physician to the institution. P. H. Foster, one of the trustees of the Home, came in just then and I introduced him to Dr. Schley, and told him that the physicians were going to have a consultation and we might as well go to dinner, and we went down to the dining room together. In about ten minutes after I was called up to the office by the ringing of the beil. When I reached the office I listened to the conversation between Dr. Schley and Dr. Thayer. Dr. Schley began to find fault with the treatment of the patient. He insisted that she had gone insane from other causes than those for which we were treating her. Dr. Thayer said that she had nearly recovered under our treament, and Dr. Schley insisted that she had not, and that the treatment should be changed. I then spoke up for the first time, saying: 'Doctor, I wish to tell you the rules of this house. Dr. Thayer treats the patients under my instructions. This patient has been two and a half months in the institution and has improved so that she can be discharged it a couple of weeks, and you wish her treatment changed before you advance an opinion.' He replied: 'I have asked to see her, but as yet have not been allowed.' I said: 'She is now at her dinner; you will see her as soon as she is through.' He then refused to consult with Dr. Thayer further if I remained in the room. I refused to leave it and remarked: 'You are a cur.' At this Schley jumped op and ran toward me with his right hand on his hip pocket, as

MR. BEECHER'S BIRTHDAY.

Mr. Beecher will be seventy years old on Sunday, June 24, and a large number of his friends, among whom are the pasters of many churches, have made arrangements to celebrate his birthday publicly in the Brooklyn Academy of Music on the Monday evening following. The following Committee of Arrangements has been appointed: Professor Charles E. West, chairman; the Rev. Dr. J. O. Peck, A. S. Barnes, Judge Joseph Neilson, the Rev. Dr. Justin D. Fulton, Horace B. Claffin, ex-Mayor James Howell, General H. W. Slocum, the Rev. Dr. E. P. Ingersoll, the Rev. Dr. C. Wells, the Rev. W. C. Stiles, John Winslow, the Rev Albert G. Lawson and Joseph F. Knapp. The celebration will consist mainly of short speeches. The following address of congratulation to Mr. Beecher's parishioners has been prepared and is being signed by large numbers of well-known citizens:

To the Officers and Members of Plymouth Church:
As your passor, Mr. Bocoher, is approaching his seventieth birtuday, perinit the undersigned, as friends and neighbors, to join you in any congratulations you may whist to extend to him. His signal public services for so many years demand some tribule of love from us all. We admite his many grand and noble characteristics and are proud to claim him as our triend and fellow-citizen. We would like to see some public recognition of Mr. Beecher on his seventieth birthday, and will be pleased to participate in whatever arrangements are made to properly celebrate the event.

Among those who have already signed the citizens:

HARVARD CLASS DAY AND COMMENCEMENT

[FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE.] CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 16 .- Class Day. the brightest day of the college year, is June 23. Probably there are 20,000 maidens within a radius of a few miles of Boston who have been speculating during the past few weeks on their chances of an invitation to Cambridge on that day, and whose hearts flutter anxlously at every knock of the postman. Fathers, mothers, aunts, cousins and neighbors, in fact all relatives and casual acquaintances of the senior class, think that they have a lien upon him to the extent of a Class Day invitation, and if they do not receive it they ever after exhibit a decided coolness toward him. As the yard will not accommodate one-twentieth of those who would like to be present, and as only ten tickets to memorial and seven to the tree exercises are allowed to each senior, Class Day at Harvard will be a duy of gloom to all except the favored few. The present Class Day does not promise to differ essentially from those of the past few years; the chief attractions will be the exercises in Sanders Theatre in the morning, many brilliant spreads in the afternoon, the exercises around the tree at 5 o'clock, at which the class hymn is sung, and the final cheers for the college, the prefessors and the other three classes are given, the exercises concluding with a rush for the flowers on the tree, and in the evening tens in the rooms and dancing in Memorial Hall and the gymnasium.

The Class-Day parts have been distributed as follows : Orator, Arthur R. Marsh, of Newport; R. I.; poet, Henry G. Chapman, of New-York; Oddist, A. M. Lord, of Cambridge; ivy orator, Charles H. Grandgent, of Cambridge.

Commencement Day, the 29th, promises to be duller than usual, since it is rumored that the faculty will suppress all punches in the yard, all fireworks, and all the customary ways of celebrating this event. The speakers for commencement have been appointed as follows: From the Sculor class-A. L. Hodges, of Taunton, Mass.,

A very low church minister was reproving his ctraic with having taken part in a wedding breakfast. "But, sir," said the young man in annazament, "our Lord himself was present at a wedding teast in Cana!" "That's perfectly trac, young man," answered the parson, "but in my opinion he had very much better have stayed away."—[Boston Transcript.

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

FASHIONABLE DOINGS OUT OF TOWN. SOCIETY AT WEST POINT, CONEY ISLAND AND BAR HARBOR-COACHING AND TENNIS.

Except for the learned who attend college commencements the town is deserted. Yet it was never looking better than now, and it is not unusual to meet people who have decided that New-York is after all one of the most delightful of summer watering-places. Meantime, while the fashionable houses are closed here, triends in London are enjoying the height of the season. American women now form an important and welcome feature of fashionable London life. The morning meetings in Hyde Park always now include at least one American beauty as an attraction. The popularity of Mrs. Arthur Paget (formerly Miss Stevens) secures for her young country women introductions even to mem-bers of the royal family.

Society assembled in force last Monday evening at the ball at West Point, which was uncomfortably crowded. General Stone, just home from Egypt and the service of the Khedive, was one of the most noted figures. His wife and daughter were with him, and will be an attractive languages and is considered one of the best Arabic scholars of her sex in the world. General Stone is a man of courtly manners, and his experience of foreign life has added to a conversational talent that was always conspicuous. Among the agreeable events of the week at West Point was the ad Iress of General Cullum at the unveiling of the statue to General Thayer. The statue was greatly admired. Jude Daly and his niece, Miss Otto, Mr. and Mrs. Jesup, Miss Routh, Judge and Mrs. Peabody, Miss Hamilton, Mrs. James, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, and many others went up un veiting. villa at Newport. General and Mrs. R. L. Wilson and family have gone to Europe, having subjet the Morgan villa to Dr. and Mrs. Bell, of New-York. The families and servants of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Livermore have gone to their respective homes at Newport and Lenox, but the heads of the houses have sailed for Europe. Mr. E. Randelph Robinson sailed for Europe in the Servia, and Mr. A. Thorndike Rice on Saturday.

The races at Coney Island were crowded and fashiona ble on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Lowery, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Breese, Mr. and Mrs. Bellows, and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Bend were among those present. On Thursday the races were delightful, but their most amusing feature was the English slang talked by the young ladies. "Oh! did not Jack of Hearts run gamely t" "There! Bootjack will win in the next stride!" "Arsenie is making up his ground." "Oh! isn't Arsenie a masty name!" "There! Bootjack is in the straight!" "See Kitty Clark come along! How she bugs the railing! Ab, we are done"; etc., etc. To talk

The tornado at Hempstead gave a great scare to the families of Mr. and Mrs. Belmont, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, but only slight damage was really done. Still, a tornado la not an agrecable aummer visitor.

The decorators are at work at Miss Wolfe's house at Newport. Mr. and the Misses Clift are at their Newport cottages and already filling it with guests. Mrs. Duncan Coleridge in Westminster Abboy, thus carrying out a wish of the late Dr. Mercer, who was an admirer of the poet Mr. H. Thornycroft, A. R. A., is to execute the

Among improvements about West Point is the summer residence of W. H. Osborne, esq., Castle Rock. This crag commands a view of the Hudson to the Catakills, embracing the cultivated fields and wild mountains which the scenery of the river combines. Mr. Osborne has to drive up, enjoy the view and descend, without troubling the family. Mr. Osborne has moved his rose-house to this height, where the flowers get two hours of additional sunshine. The happy denizens of Bar Harbor are enjoying the early gayety of June. Mrs. Musgrave is at her cottage, planting her gardens and building a billiard-room. Mr. and Mrs. R. Jones are moving into a new house. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rice have taken up their summer quarters and have with them General and Mrs. R. B. Potter. The combination of woodland, mountain and sea is never more perfect than in June, but as yet the hotels are scarcely opened. A large and picturesque lare, which affords excellent fishing, is among the attractions of Bar Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Sherman and a party of friends
